STOCK DULLNESS IS ACCENTUATED

Character of the Market, However, Is but Little Changed.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The dullness of the stock market was accentuated to-day, but the character of the market was but little changed. The professional observers of the dealings are inclined to argue favorably from the power of resistance manifested. Reaction is postponed in spite of the running cut of the demand, and from this it is inferred that there is no inclination to sell stocks. The demand remains, however, at a very low stage. Interest to-day centred chiefly in a few lower-grade stocks and the movements in these had no other reason, so far as was revealed, than the suspected operations of pools in the stocks. The railroad stocks in which ments in these had no other reason, so far as was revealed, than the suspected operations of pools in the stocks. The railroad stocks in which the Hawley interest is dominant showed some life, and from this it was inferred that additional railroad deals are intended by that operator. News of the sale of a block of bonds by the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company gave an impression of confidence in early need for additional steel producing facilities.

The statement that interest due in April on Erie bonds would be paid by the company instead of the purchase of the coupons by the company's bankers, which has been the practice for several months, was taken as evidence of growing financial strength by that company.

There was an advancing tendency An in quotations for copper, although the amarket for that metal was said to have An quieted down again after the more active demand earlier in the week.
